

Sinclair Broadcast Group's recent actions have illustrated the dangers of media consolidation.

I am appalled that a media organization can take something that is obviously for the benefit of a particular political candidate and force television stations to run it. What kind of crazy media system does the US have where political ads can be run as the news.

I feel there would be less likelihood of something like this happening if we did not have a few national media outlets dominate the airwaves. Please prevent single corporations from owning huge chunks of the nation's media.

Sincerely,
Tim
